You've worked hard for nine weeks to become healthier. It doesn't stop here. So we created special sections of our website – www.KidShape.com -- just for you and just for your child.

In the Parents Section you can

- Post questions and get answers from other KidShape parents in our forum
- Explore our favorite web-based resources to help you and your family maintain good health

In the Graduates Section, your child can

- Ask any question she or he might have of Dr. Naomi Neufeld, Dr. Beth, or other KidShape staff
- Post questions and get answers from other KidShape graduates in our forum
- Explore our favorite fun web-based resources to maintain motivation for good health

To register you need to create a username and a password for yourself and a username and a password for your child. We also need your permission to have your child participate on the KidShape password protected site, including the forum, and for us to collect limited personally-identified information on your child. Although we don't do it now, we might someday have a place where graduates can tell their stories. It's important to know that the password protected Graduates Section of our website for which you are giving permission for your child's participation is not open to the public at large. We will have information on all people who have availability to this section of our site unless access has been obtained fraudulently.

At <http://www.kidshape.com/kidshape/terms.htm> you can check out the terms and conditions of use of the KidShape website. At <http://www.kidshape.com/kidshape/privacy.htm> you can review our privacy policy, which is also attached to this form.
